

Finding a Job

General Advice (Mine)

- The first job is for experience. You can develop skills, build a network and get yourself ready for one that is closer to what you want. You look better being employed than not being employed.
- Do your research. Look at the Website, Annual Report, 990, etc.
- A good deal of public service employment is based on the time of year. The job market picks up around the October 1 beginning of the federal fiscal year.
- Build your network. Have business cards. Pass them out. Get a card from everyone you meet and send them an email (it was nice to meet you).
- Be realistic.
- Things that actual employers care about (1) Dependability, (2) Ability to accomplish things in groups, (3) meeting deadlines, (4) actual skills and (5) Fit.
- Linked In is your friend. Other Kinds of Social Media maybe not. Assume that a potential employer might google your name (Try that Now).
- Mom was right
- Finding a job is tough and its hard work
